The Altamaha River's drainage basin is about 14,000 square miles in size, qualifying it among the larger river basins of the US Atlantic coast.

It is the largest river in Georgia and is reportedly the third-largest contributor of fresh water to the Atlantic Ocean from North America.

Georgia's coast is a haven for anglers, offering the thrill of reeling in prized catches like powerful redfish, flavorful spotted seatrout, and elusive flounder.

With acrobatic tarpon and the uniquely striped sheepshead adding to the adventure, these waters promise an exciting and rewarding fishing experience!

Margaret Mitchell, the author of the Gone with the Wind, was born in Atlanta GA. Her time living in Georgia, and the stories she heard of those who lived in the state during the Civil War, inspired the famous story. The novel went on to win the National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize for fiction in 1937.

Flamin' Hot Cheetos were developed by a janitor at Frito-Lay, Richard Montanez, who got the idea after putting chili powder on some reject Cheetos and then pitched it to the CEO. He's now a successful executive and motivational speaker, and a movie is in the works about his life.
